The Paw Rewards Christmas Gift Guide 2027

15 gifts for Canadian dogs and the people who love them

Who are you shopping for? The dog who could spend all morning sniffing the same spruce tree? The old fellow who waits to be lifted onto his end of the couch? Or the person who still has the text you sent the day their puppy was born?

We picked each gift with a particular dog or person in mind, then checked the details that would decide whether we'd buy it. Sometimes that meant measuring a paw. Once, it meant finding out how much brushed-out undercoat a spinner in British Columbia needs to make a skein of yarn.

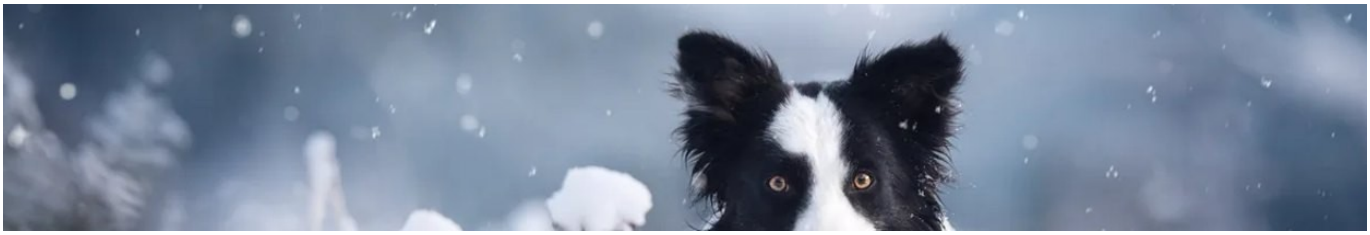

Our first pick is twelve walks together

Free · For the person who always does the walking

Write twelve invitations, one for each month after Christmas. Give January an actual date and name the route. One month you take the early shift and let your dad sleep in. Another month you take him along, bring the coffee and let his old dog stop at every snowbank. Tuck the invitations into the mittens he already wears. Put the first walk in both your calendars before Christmas dinner.

Prices were checked against maker, operator and Canadian retail listings on November 18, 2026. All prices are in Canadian dollars. Use them to plan for Christmas 2027. Stock, rates and holiday delivery dates can change.

For the dog at the door before you

Chilly Dogs

Chilly Dogs Great White North coat

$99.95–$189.95 · For the short-coated dog on a cold, dry walk

The reason to spend this much on a coat is the fit. Chilly Dogs cuts its Canadian-made coat for different builds, including deep-chested, narrow-waisted dogs and broader dogs with shorter backs. The lined coat covers both chest and rump. Ask for chest girth, neck girth and back length. Choose the harness-opening version if they use a back-clip harness. The fleece neck can get wet in steady rain.

Muttluks

Original Fleece-Lined Muttluks

From $66 for four · For the dog who walks on salted sidewalks

A full set of soft boots is a good family gift for a city dog. This model pairs flexible leather soles with fleece lining and a knitted cuff. Ask the owner to stand one front paw on paper and mark the distance from the back of the paw to the end of the longest nail. Save that tracing with the dog's name and the year. It makes a rather good Christmas tag, especially for a growing puppy.

Adventure Lights

Adventure Lights Guardian dog light

$21.99 · For the person on the after-supper shift

This is the stocking stuffer we'd give the neighbour who walks a black dog at four-thirty every afternoon. Strap the little light where the dog's coat or ruff won't cover it. It comes with a collar strap and a clip, and flipping the included battery changes the light from flashing to steady. Wrap it already set to the mode they prefer.

Big Country Raw and Tilted Barn are Paw Rewards sponsors. Crumps' Naturals supports our 2027 Puppy Pack program. We've included the specific items we'd give and who we'd give them to.

Tilted Barn Pet Co.

Tilted Barn Beef & Saskatoon Berry MiniWags

$9.49 for 100 g · For the dog learning a new trick

Wrap the bag with a handwritten challenge to teach the dog to touch an open palm. These soft Prairie-made bites are small enough to reward each try. The recipe includes beef heart, liver and kidney, oats and Saskatoon berries. Write "refrigerate after opening" on the gift tag.

SodaPup

SodaPup Honey Pot

$20.49 regular price · For the dog who likes working on supper

The wide mouth makes it easy to spoon in supper and get a dish brush to the bottom afterward. Start with a little familiar food, unfrozen. SodaPup makes the pot in the U.S. for average chewers who enjoy a supervised food puzzle. Skip it for dogs who enjoy dismantling the container.

Three outings worth wrapping

For the person who usually plans the trip, taking care of the booking is half the present. These three outings give the dog a reason to come along.

A field all to themselves in Alberta

MyWalkies, De Winton · 30 or 60 minutes · Confirm the rate with the operator

MyWalkies

For a dog who loves a good run and hates a crowded gate, this is our favourite experience in the guide. MyWalkies' Release the Leash field just south of Calgary gives your group 2.5 acres to itself, including a small wooded trail. You can drive into the enclosure. That matters as much as the acreage for a dog who finds parking-lot greetings hard. Some fencing is four feet high with four-inch openings, a detail worth checking for a jumper or a very small dog. Give a certificate so the family can choose their hour.

A winter hike at Parc national d'Oka

Québec · $10.30 per adult for daily access at the research date

Vincent Poirier · CC BY-SA 3.0 · resized

Put a printout of Le Calvaire d'Oka in the envelope. Sépaq's winter trail chart admits dogs on this 4.4 km route, rates it intermediate and allows about 90 minutes. Nearby Le Rivage Est and Ouest have different dog rules, so writing the trail name on the card does real work. Bring a thermos for the people and check snow conditions before leaving. For a flexible date, Sépaq emails a printable gift certificate. Bookings paid with it must be made by phone.

Money towards an Atlantic beach weekend

White Point Beach Resort, Nova Scotia · Gift card from $50

White Point Beach Resort

For the family that plans every trip around whether the dog can come, put money towards a cottage on Nova Scotia's South Shore. White Point welcomes pets in its White Point Rooms and selected cottages, with walking paths and a fenced off-leash play area. The resort lists a $25 pet fee plus tax per stay. Have the property confirm a pet-friendly unit before choosing dates. Its gift card arrives by post, and the family needs the physical card at checkout. Order early enough to give them the real thing.

For the dog who grew old beside you

DoggoRamps

DoggoRamps solid maple couch ramp

$249 listed · The maker shows a stock notice. Check Canadian availability.

Somewhere along the way, the dog who claimed the whole couch starts waiting for a lift. If their favourite place is still beside you, this Canadian-made couch ramp is what we'd go in on together. Its textured surface leads to a flat landing, and the ramp folds for storage. Measure the couch seat and the clear floor space beside it first. The maker lists adjustable heights from 14 to 21 inches. Part of the present is setting it up and giving the dog time to learn it with you.

Small Saints

A skein of yarn from their own dog

Small Saints, Prince George, B.C. · From $135 plus postage to the maker

Know a knitter who lives with a Sheltie or a Collie? Those soft clouds that come out of the brush can become yarn they can hold in their hands. Small Saints cards, spins and plies the dog's undercoat. Its pure pet-hair order starts at 85 grams, and the owner pays to mail the fibre to B.C. Ask before sending any precious brushings. If the family is still collecting, wrap a paper bag, a photograph and your promise to cover the spinning. Write the dog's name and the date of the first brushing on the bag.

A puppy’s first Christmas

Posterjack

A photo book with both halves of the story

Posterjack softcover photo book · $31 for the displayed 8 × 10 in. format

Ask the breeder for one picture the family has never seen. Open the book with that puppy asleep against their littermates. On the facing page, show the dog asleep in exactly the same position at home. Give each photograph a date and one sentence only its people could write. Posterjack prints the softcover book in Toronto with 20 pages included. Order with time for both production and delivery. Make a second copy for the breeder if you can. They rarely get to see the second half of the story this way.

A Christmas letter for their Memory Box

Use a box the family already owns · No purchase needed

A breeder can give a puppy family a memory from before they met. Write about the first time you could pick their pup out by personality alone. Date the letter and tuck in a photograph. If you’re the one who brought the puppy home, send a letter back about the first habit you recognised from that story. Keep the pair in your Paw Rewards Memory Box, or any lidded box. Years from now, both people’s handwriting will be part of what makes it theirs.
